CIGARET BUTTED ON BEAR'S NOSE TO SAVE CHILD

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)-A three-yearold boy was rescued from a 250-pound bear at the city zoo Tuesday by a teen-ager who jammed a glowing cigaret against the beast's nose

The animal quickly released its grip on the hand of Russell VanDam.

The boy had crawled under a guard rail and thrust his hand through a two-inch mesh screen into the bear's cage.

Thomas Cole, 19, heard the boy's mother, Mrs. Melvin J. VanDam, scream. He rushed to the cage and found her trying to pull her son's hand free. Cole reached through the screen and burned the bear's tender nose.

The Cost of Ships

VICTORIA CAN REASONABLY expect a fair share of the Federal Government's shipouilding contracts provided, of course, that ships can be built here at a fair The local vards claim that, factors considered—especially the year-around coastal building season and high productivity-their prices compare favorably with those of eastern yards. A delegation from Victoria is in Ottawa now arguing the matter with the Federal Government which, of course, cannot ask the Canadian taxpayers to pay excessive prices.

However the Government arranges its contracts, the shipbuild-ing industry will still be in a bad way. So will the whole Canadian shipping industry.

The present Government came into office with brave plans for re viving the merchant marine which, it said, had been destroyed by its predecessors. But it soon sold off most of its remaining ships, simply because they could not possibly compete with foreign ships. Priced out of the shipping market, Canada is rapidly ceasing to be a mari-

Few ships are being built for Canadian use. Foreign nations will not buy ships here when they can be bought at a much lower price clsewhere. Why should they? And if a Canadian firm needs a ship will be inclined to patronize the relatively cheap yards of Britain or perhaps Japan.

It should be remembered, however, when we talk about unfair competition from such nations as Britain and Japan that they are buying far more from us than we buy from them. British and Japanese imports from this country employ many thousands of Canadians, especially in British Columbia. They will not buy from us unless we buy from them. Both these nations earn dollars for the pur-chase of our goods by shipping services that are cheaper than ours.

The Canadian Government can subsidize a costly merchant marine at the taxpayers' expense (though it shows no sign of doing so) but in the end our shipbuilding and shipping industries will prosper, other industry, only if they are competitive.

If our ships are not competitive and yet our exporters are compelled by law to use them, that will simply increase the cost of our exports which already are finding it difficult to compete in any market except the high-cost United States. The extra cost can be expressed directly in the price of our, goods or indirectly through subsidies provided by the public treasury. either case the cost cannot be escaped Federal Government contracts help our shipyards or at least keep them alive, but their real problem is to get their costs down. For in the end the nation will not finance them on any satisfactory scale to suit the convenience of a few cities like Victoria, especially at a time when a huge fleet of ships is idle on the world's oceans. But the shipbuilders cannot get their costs down so long as their workers expect increasing wages, regardless of the resulting price of their

Unwelcome Pressure From Behind

SINCE THAT SEPTEMBER, 1957, day when Mr. A. deB. McPhillips launched his political attack on federal civil servants, there have been similar murmurings from Conservative back benchers.

In Oak Bay, the member for Victoria said: "All the civil servants and deputy ministers in Ottawa are Grits. Don't be impatient at Government action. After the next election when we have a more secure mandate, more stern action will be taken.

A modified repetition of that comment from Mr. McPhillips the following December — that senior civil servants were Liberal stooges undermining the Conservative Gov ernment—brought a speedy and sharp rebuke from Mr. Howard Green, then acting prime minister.

Mr. Green, a man of integrity and wide experience, said that the civil service had given the new Government splendid co-operation, that without that help from non-partisan experts, the Government's task, in its early days, would have been impossible.

So spoke the experienced and honest veteran to the neophyte. But the McPhillips sentiment dies hard and not only in the Tory back benches at Ottawa

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, in a sin of ommission rather than commission, failed to repudiate the newspaper suggestion that recent immigration department regulations unfair to Italians were drafted by civil servants to embarrass the Government.

Nor does the issue end there. The press has carried its quota of comment on the dubious appointment of Government friend A. E. MacArthur to the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Editorials have drawn pointed attention to the resignation from office of Mitchell Sharp, deputy minister of trade and commerce. And again the public has been disturbed by the Conservative caucus protest against the appointment of a former Liberal M.P., Frank Power, to a labor department post—a protest that rose in spite of the fact that Mr. Power had convinced the Civil Service Commission after thorough testing that he was the best qualified of all applicants for the post.

All this has created nervousness and unhappiness in the ranks of the civil service. That organization reports it is now in a position to bring to public attention any indication of a return to the party patronage system in civil service appointmentsa defensive reaction to attack.

This is an unpleasant and highly unfortunate situation. Governments come and go, but the business of Canada cannot be conducted efficiently without a competent Civil. Service which enjoys the confidence of the party in power. When that service becomes restive, when sus-picion is roused between it and the Government, Canada suffers.

It is highly regrettable that Mr. Green's admonition to Mr. McPhillips has not been taken to heart generally by Conservatives of different ranks

The condition which results makes for an uneasy public as well as an uneasy service as Parliament prepares to rewrite the whole Civil Service Act next year.

The record of the Government on appointments and Civil Service relations so far is pretty good. No pressure from the back benches should be allowed to spoil it.

The Withheld Tax Benefit

RECENT CASE IN THE CITY A has revealed in sharp clarity a glaring flaw in Mr. Bennett's $28 municipal tax rebate legislation.

The instance concerns an elderly gentleman who prepaid his share of current taxes on a city dwelling he owned and occupied. Prepayment of taxes is encouraged, since it helps to provide working funds for the city. But, according to the legislation, the $28 rebate may not be claimed until the tax notices have actually been mailed. Mailing starts in June.

The elderly property owner died last week. He had met his part of the bargain, as far as taxes are concerned. However, by terms of the act, it is impossible for the executor of his estate to sign papers claiming the rebate on current

The situation is such, explains the city tax collector, that if a man, owning a home in his own name, died before the time arrived at which he could apply for the re-bate, his widow, living in the same house, could not make the appli-

When an anomaly such as this exists, it seems high time to overhaul the legislation.

CANADIANS CANNOT VIEW wrong as apartheid is in the minds with pride all their dealings with Indians and Eskimos. There are innumerable incidents on record which can cause only regret over the manner in which the natives have been and are being treated.

It could be applied to much more than plastic bags. The fact is, we're going to have to learn to live with all kinds of bags, plastic or otherwise, and a thousand and one other products of our brave new world. There was a time when most of the things man invented and produced were designed to make his environment safer. There were so many natural hazards, it was almost a full-time job to devise ways of overcoming them.

Fairly Safe

It was a long climb up the ladder before man reached a point where he was relatively free from the more common natural dangers. It was only an earthquake, tidal wave, lightning bolt or other major blow that could catch him off guard—and even these could be

It is far too late in the day to demand that all these hazards be abolished. They can be counteracted to some extent. There can be safety catches on wringers, inside handles on refrigerator doors, and so on. But to do away with them all in order to make the world safer would be to abandon most of the things we

How About Being Canadian?

Perhaps a few moments earnest study of a world map should prove conclusively to a certain minority of Victorians our geographical position in relation to the British Isles.

The fallacy that we are a "little bit of old England" should be shattered once and for all with the realization that the "tea and crumpet era" has passed into eternal obscurity.

The crux of this entire argument particularly in regards the suggested "window dressing" of city policemen in bobby uniforms hinges on just this premise. Today what little British culture remains is primarily a case of individuals striving to retain some rem-nant of their ancestral background. This is not intended to be an indictment of way of life, but merely stresses a

A non-performing society was created in 1926 for the study of Gilbert and Sullivan, their operas and associates, which still exists with branches all over the world. Gilbert is frequently quoted. Montgomery in The Times last week called the Russian situation Gibertian. Silenus in Saturday night's Times headed his column with Eliptical Billiard Balls. Three different recording companies have issued complete musical performances of the operas and a great many individual records exist. ### Notting Hill Problems

By JOHN ROSSELLI

LONDON-Riot is not the normal state of the area roughly known as Notting Hill. But distrust is—and had living conditions and social fragmentation. Now that "the light nights" are coming round again and with them the certainty that ill-housed people will be spending a good deal of time on the streets, it is as well to remember this. Collective violence has come and gone: nearly everybody hopes that it will not come again. The problems of the area persist.

An American colored leader, Mr. Herbert Hill, said last week after a short visit that "unless some action is taken now there will be more trouble in the course of the summer."

Sir Patrick Spens, the member of Parliament for South Kensington, said last month: "It is absolutely certain that there will be more trouble in the area if Sir Oswald Mosley persists in the views he expressed in his recent speech in Kensington."

I met no one in the area who would go so far. Men who live close to its people differ in their judgments (this is as true in the colored as in the white community-it is a mistake to think of

Deep and Bitter

Most of those I spoke to agreed that feeling still runs deep and bitter; they shared Sir Patrick Spens' fears though not his certainty; they thought a solution would come only through long effort and they hoped they would be allowed to make the effort without further serious disturbance.

Walk westwards from Ladbroke Grove and the place, though decayed, looks normal. Once or twice you run across a couple of young girls, one white, one colored, walking and chatting together. Of several boarded-up shops one, colored hairdresser's, is so for a special (eason: the old front was broken once too often. (This and similar damage to a private dwelling seem to be the chief verifiable incidents of the last few months.).

After a while you notice that there seem to be fewer colored people about than there were last year. Knowledge-able residents confirm this.

A number an unknown number of colored people have gone away. Whatreasons for it (and there are reasons for moving from North Kensington which have nothing to do with color), it which have nothing to seems to be a fact.

Another fact is put by a social worker: "The colored community here is like a new town—mostly young people it bildren. Remember, in the with small children. Remember, in the next 10 years we'll have a colored teen-

Future Problems

There is, of course, already a white teen-age population. Perhaps the longterm effort had better not take too long

Two youth leaders conclude that "it's no good forcing integration," "the best thing is to bring a few West Indians into existing groups—and anyhow not many want to come."

want to come."

Whether or not this is the wisest policy, it clearly leaves the bulk of the colored community outside for the time being. Hence some people in the area have it in mind to found yet another community centre.

Even "not making it obvious that integration is going on" is a difficult job.

tegration is going on" is a difficult job. A colored boy in a largely white club got into a scuffle with another boy over a billiard cue. It should have been that and no more; but although the warden prevented further trouble the boy did not go to the club again.

So, too, the Harmony Club, a volunteer organization, found that players did not turn up for football practitie and that dances turned into over-crowded, virtually all-white affairs.

Clearly it is easy to frighten people off and confirm the bitter feeling of being rejected. A volunteer leader says:

"We concentrated far too much on making the colored people welcome. It was really on the level of 'we absolutely love

These are the words of someone who has learnt something. Yet wisdom is bitter enough.

Many Facets

(confirmed by One's impression several residents) is that the basic probseveral residents) is that the basic problems are the same as for a long time past—jobs, housing, broken families, and distrust of the neighbor who is none of your kin, a distrust intensified but not created by color differences.

Vice, of which so much was made last, year, is there all right: but it seems to matter less in itself than as a myth matter less in itself than as a myth potent in the minds of people who find in it justification for all their fears.

Violence may not come, again; distrust remains. After the mixed Christmas party at the town hall some whites mas party at the town hall some whites said, "Yes, they were all right, nice people—but they were picked, weren't they?" (true enough, on such occasions both sides are "picked," if only by their own willingness to come forward).

In some conversations in Notting Hill one can sense a desperate desire to be treated as a human being, not as a unit in a group, fit to be picked, hated, helped, or reformed. But it will take helped, or reformed. But it will take time, and a good deal of effort, before most people can bring themselves to see their neighbors as they wish to be seen themselves as to its continuation. Now, however, the United States is taking the lead in an attempt to vitalize the court. The American Bar Association is waging a vigorous campaign which has been strongly supposted by Vice-President Richard Nixon, If the World Court is vitalized then the major step will have been taken toward creation of a real world authority, but it's questionable whether any court can be truly effective unless it has a police force to back up its decisions. In the case of the World Court, a rudimentary police force already exists in the UN Emergency Force in the Middle East and Canada's Lester Pearson has recently urged once again that this pattern be used to create a permanent military force to be available for UN duty. Sec-retary-General Dag Hammarskjold is more cautious and thinks that international forces should be custom built to meet the differing circumstances in each case of trouble. He mentary forms of the three branches of government have been developing in a most speaks with authority based on his ex-perience in UNEF and in sending UN forces or trouble-shooting representatives during the past year to Levanon, Jordan and to the Thailand-Cambodian border. > trouble. Normally such a case would have gone to the security council where it would have probably become a Cold War issue. This time the members of the security council were only advised of the situation. It was the first time an international dispute has been dis-posed of through the UN secretariat and, it may prove to have been one of the significant his personal representative to look into the ming of age dates in UN history.

It may also be a sort of tombstone date for the security council. As originally planned, the council was intended to exer-cise a sort of benevolent dictatorship over the rest of the world. It was to have had large military forces which would have be effectively under the control of the big powers through the veto, but of course it didn't work because the dictators couldn't agree. The security council is now virtually dead and its ineffectiveness was demonstrated by Mr. Hammarskjold's action last

So there it is—the original idea for the United Nations has collapsed and, in its place, the embryonic forms of a real world authority seem to be taking shape. Perhaps a better analogy would be to say that the original UN was like an elaborately grafted fruit tree which was supposed to produce several kinds of exotic fruit. ### NO-HIT RECORDS

Luck Was Bad For Others, Too

MILWAUKEE (AP) - Only five pitchers have accomdished more than nine innings of hitless ball in major league history. Only two have been winners.

Harvey Haddix of Pittsburgh Pirates did it Tuesday night, through an unprecedented 12 perfect innings, but lost 2-0 against Milwaukee Braves, who gained their only hit in the deciding 13th inning.

In 1906 Brooklyn's Harry McIntire pitched 10 hitless Innings against Pittsburgh, but the Pirates won 1-0 in 13. In 1884 Brooklyn's Ed Kimber pitched 10 hitless innings tion in a game called in the 11th inning because of darkness

Only two pitchers ever hurled 10-inning no-hitters and won. George Wiltsee of the old New York Giants did it for a 1-0 decision over Philadelphia in 1908, and Fred Toney of Cincinnati who had a double no-hit duel with Jim Vaughn of Chicago Cubs for nine innings, won 1-0 in 1917.

Only seven other pitchers have hurled perfect games for not innings. They are John Richmond of Worcester and John Word of Providence, both in the National League in 1880; Boston's Cy Young in 1904; Adrian Joss of Cleve-land in 1904; Ernie Shore of Boston Red Sox in 1917; Charsen of New York Yankees in the 1956 World Series.

BY EARL WILSON

NEW YORK-Milton Berle did a gracious thing on my birthday a couple of years ago and now I'm going to be sweet to him. (Just see how sweet!)

His birthday (his 51st) isn't until July 12-but the telethon he's doing here gives me an excuse to remind you that he was recently on trial here, accused of assault with a deadly weapon-his mouth.

asked: "Have you ever Id anything in common with Mil-ton Berle?"

"Yes, we used to get our dresses from the same dress-maker," thundered Tallulah. Tom Poston said Berle started a trend in TV-a trend of comedians being cancelled.

"But he DID start comedy on TV 10 years ago?" persisted the "prosecutor."

'Yes," agreed Tom Poston, "and this year he finished it." * * *

That's the brash, boisterous Berle we're always talking about . . . but Robert Cum-mings recently told me about another Berle. Few people remember that Cummings was Milton's straight man in Earl Carroll's Vanities away back 1932, and then they went

"I'd take $50,000 right now if the right person offered it," he says, "but it would have to be $100,000 if somebody from New York wanted the collection.

And these are rare—rare and irreplaceable.

They are the work of two of the most skillful argillite carvers that the Queen Charlotte Islands ever saw -- so skillful that, less than 50 years, after they died, they are legendary figures, and buyers scramble to purchase their work.

Charlie Edensaw, the haughty chief, has been told often.

The story goes that Chapman was a slave-captive of the chief. The chief loved to carve the grey slate-like rock of the islands. And Chapman watched him, tried it himself, and ended up producing better work than the chief.

The rivalry continued for five or six years. Chief Edensaw would carve out a legend in a foot-high argillite totem pole and then the crippled youth would carve a smaller, more intricate pole depicting a legend of his own.

The result was probably the finest single collection of Indian art anywhere in the world. consisting of an assortment of black totem poles and figures less than a foot high.

500-Per-Cent Tourist Boost Seen in Decade

Bennett Defends $1 Billion Program

A 500-per-cent increase in British Columbia's tourist traffic over the next 10 years was forecast today, by Premier Bennet.

He said it was with this in mind that his government had pushed the $21,000,000 Deas Island tunnel through to completion and would forge ahead with its $1,000,000,000 high-

"The people of Vancouver were all bottled up before. Now they can get in and out, and this will lead to the opening up of the Ladner area, which has been held back for so long."

Referring to a Vancouver newspaper report that traffic in the tunnel had slowed down to a few cars, the premier build them."

Premier Bennett said the Pacific Great Eastern Railway had already justified his optimism. He stated that loaded freight cars on the PGE had increased from 2.292 in April 1958 to 4.062 in April 1959—a 77 per cent increase.

Operating revenues had in-creased by 76½ per cent in April over 1958.

"I am delighted with the progress of the PGE," he de-clared.

The premier laughed when asked when the PGE would go to the Yukon. "The newspapers are funny. They used to say we didn't need the PGE in the Peace River country. Now they want to know when it will reach the Yukon.

"I have no comment on that at present."

Indian Chief Vote Candidate

WINNIPEG (CP) — An Indian chief was named by the CCF party Monday to run for the Rupertsland seat in the Manitoba legislature.

Chief Alfred James Cook, 60, with a long record as an Indian leader, was named by the CCF provincial executive. Most of Manitoba voted May 14 in a general election but elections in Rupertsland and Churchill, the other big north-ern constituency, were defer-red to June 11 because of spring travel difficulties.

Free World Summit? SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP)— Senator Lyndon B. Johnson has proposed that the United States "invite the many na-tions of the great non-Com-munist world to a meeting at the summit here in the New World," The Senate Democratic leader from Texas said such a session would provide a vivid contrast with Soviet de-mands for a summit conference of the few powers who won the war.

Juveniles Recaptured

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)-Seven teen agers who made a bold escape from a juvenile detention home and tried to flee into Mexico were held to-day by juvenile authorities.

Grain of Galt For Physical Fitness Test

Parents Outcla's Children-Expe

By IAN SMITH

So you're a run-down fa her mother of two hea hy growing pre-teenagers and ou just can't take any more their young exuberance a general good health?

So you envy them their get eral physical fitness?

According to two recognized international tests, the Kraus-Weber and the Cureton Physical Fitness standards, you are probably more fit than they

This is the controversial opinion of Wes McVicar, a man who should know if anyone does. For more than 30 years he has been connected with the physical education program of Canadian YMCAs. Mr. MeVicar, in Victoria on Monday in his position of liaison officer for western-YMCA's, was concise in his re-marks about the accepted physical fitness tests.

GRAIN OF SALT

"One must take with a big grain of salt the results of most physical fitness tests," he

"North Americans have much higher percentage of failures than Europeans on these tests-but there is a reason for this. Most of us fail on the flexibility test (for example, touch the toes without bending the knees), but I don't

"Time and place and age all influence flexibility; it's easier to pass the test when you're 12 than when you're mine, and, if you take it just after getting up you're liable to fail when you could pass later in the

PARENTS PASS

"And, to get back to the age factor, more parents can pass than children, I believe.

"But I don't think that this indicates that adults in Canada are in good physical condition. the contrary, adults are not in anything like good physical condition.
"But they can still pass the Kraus-Weber test.

"And, as for the Cureton test, well, I feel it is sufficient to say that Roger Bannister (noted four minute miler) failed it. He only passed a third of the tests. But no one could say he was out of condition, could they?

But Mr. McVicar, after stating his basic disagreements with present testing methods, did agree that Canadians on the whole are pretty much out of condition.

DOWN, DOWN, DOWN

"As economy improves, the physical fitness index goes down. Thus, we should be fractionally more fit than those in the United States, if only for the reason that there are less cars up here.
"But this is no excuse for lack of conditioning; one should be in a state of good muscular tone at all times, with the possible exception of just after an illness. "Exercise is like taking vitamins; it's got to be a part of your regular diet." Mr. McVicar advises strenuous calisthenics to attain this condition of physical fitness. "Calisthenics are continuous exercise," he says, "and to be good for conditioning an exer-se must be continuous.

"That's what's wrong with most sports as a conditioning force; in baseball, for instance, you're standing around better than half the time. But something like calisthenics or swimming is continuous, and therefore excel-lent for conditioning."

SUCCEED

The YMCA adult program, he feels, is a good way to physical fitness. "We put the emphasis on conditioning," he says, "and I think we succeed. "It's a lot of work." he warns, "but it's worth it; people who are physically alert are also mentally alert, and thus get a lot more out of life.

"We're not able to prove— yet—that people who are in condition live longer . . . but I feel that they certainly en-joy life more, in any case."

Victorian Learns About Co-operation

BY HAL MALONE

The next time Mrs. G. Fitzpatrick Dunn complains about the price of coffee in Victoria supermarkets her husband is ilkely to respond with: "Tell it to the Czechs."

He would say it because he is a seven-day

e x p e r t on C z e c h o s lovakia. On l y
l a s t weekend
Mr. Dunn and 51 other British Columbians returned from a 21-day visit to Czecho- Hal Malone slovakia, France and England. They spent seven days in each country on a Vancouver Board of Trade goodwill mis-sion. A reasonably heavy cof-fee drinker, Mr Dunn nearly choked when he heard what Czechs pay for their caffeine. "One kilogram of coffee—about 2 pounds in our measure -costs about 17% of the basic monthly salary of the average Czech" gurgled Mr. Dunn. This means, he said, that most Czechs do without cof-fee. And if they want it bad enough, chances are they will have to walk to get it. Cars are as scarce as capitalists in Prague, a city of 2,000,000 socialist souls.

There was a faintly derisive rhere was a faintly derisive tone in Mr. Dunn's voice when he used the word "socialist." "It's not my word." he said. "It's theirs. Everywhere in Prague the people are re-minded they are socialists not

"We were there on May 9. "we were there on May 3, the anniversary of their liberation' (from free peoples to socialists). The streets were draped with banners exhorting the people to co-operate with the U.S.S.R. for peace and would cocialism."

with the U.S.S.R. for peace and world socialism." Co-operate. That's a new communist, pardon, socialist expression for "do-it-or-else."

CO-OPERATION Co-operation in Czechoslo-vakia means going to the school they tell you to go to, school they tell you to go to, working at the job they tell you to work at and accepting the pay they tell you to accept. Unionism? Bargaining rights? Not on your Karl Marx, says Mr. Dunn.

With the other "graphfallets"

With the other "capitalists." Mr. Dunn toured the famous Skoda Works. Only when the Canadian group visited it, the name had been changed to the Stalin Works. Inside 56,000 workers toil for the greater glory of you-know-who

One incident proved to Mr. Dunn that the Czechs have a fair sense of humor. Two Vancouver members of the party had brought with them signs which regularly appear on B.C. roads under construction.

That is why the lead car of the B.C. caravan, travelling along a Czech road one day, suddenly found itself confronted with the notice: "Sorry For the Inconvenience. (Signed) P. A. Gaglardi."

"When we translated it for our Czech guides they howled."

our Czech guides they howled," said Mr. Dunn. "They got as big a kick out of it as did Mr. Gaglardi."

Not all the tour was con-fined to viewing industry. In France, particularly, the group took special pains not to over-look the arts and figures. In look the arts and figures. In some of the places they visited the "figures" (even for a Board of Trade, group) were "quite fascinating." Mr. Dunn did not elaborate. Probably because the lights were not strong enough to give an accurate, detailed picture.

Wouldn't you agree, Mrs.

Dunn?

MONTE ROBERTS

When friends drop in unexpectedly, and you are running low on sarsaparilla, and the friends show no sign of going home, you might try this on them:

Bid you ever hear the story of the rich old man who didn't believe in book larnin', and the rich old man's son who was always trying to improve his mind?

Well, it seems this old man became very rich indeed, through discovering coal or oil or uranium or something, and through having dug it out of the ground with his own

And it seems this old man hadn't never been to college, or high school, or any school at all, and wouldn't have no truck nor trade with nobody that went to school what-

and listening to lectures and visiting art galleries and goodness knows what else goings-on in the field of culture.

Well, one of the greatest prides the old man had—and had many prides—was pride in his home. So the old man up and had built for hisself the biggest dang house you ever saw, a real baronial mansion it was, and it was indeed the pride and also the joy of his poor old uneducated heart. In fact, it was such a baronial mansion that people came from miles around to admire it, and the local real estate agent said it was worth two zillion dollars if it was worth a pfenning. Meantime, the old man's son kept on reading books and carrying on with culture in its most virulent forms, until the old man was like to despair.

So one day the rich old man called in his son, and he said, son, don't you realize that when I am gone, all this will be yours, this great big mansion which is worth at least two zillion dollars?

Yes, father, said the son, putting a bookmark in the book he was reading. (He would NEVER dog-ear the page of a book.)

Well, son, I got news for you, the old man said, you ain't going to get this great big baronial mansion worth at least two zillion dollars unless'n you give up readin' and traipsin' around to art galleries and all that there culture.

You got a choice, the old man said, either you give up cultivating' your mind, or you don't get to have this house

Three Dollars Buys Huge Colorful Beach Umbrella

By PENNY SAVER

Heigh ho! Summer weather is just around the corner. Everyone seems to be thinking of holidays, up Island trips, and lazy days on the beach. Next time you have a picnic or afternoon-in-the-sun planned, this light-as a feather, bambooribbed beach umbrella will be a marvellous addition to your speaking of protecting that coffure and complexion from harsh drying sun. I've found Jamaica straw hats—with brim of tangled flying straw ends. They cost 49 cents.

Why all that grass and straw flapping in the breeze? Natives of the sunny isles have a reason—keeps annoying mosquitoes and flies at a distance. A flip of the brim whisks insects away.

Big striped beach towel to spread out on the sand—bundle up in after a brisk swim—is another joy to have along on a beach trip. A special beach towel saves the ones at home from rough wear and tear treatment swimming outings subject them to. These cost only $1.79, are a big 30 by 70 inches.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Those Little Lines Around Lips Discourage Women

Today I want to give you a few special hints about make up.

Those little lines which extend out from the lips are most discouraging to women. Many develop these as they grow older—and these lines do much to make a woman look older. I am not speaking of lines

I am not speaking of lines from nose to mouth or from mouth to chin, but the little lines which sometimes appear on the upper lip around the

Of course mannerisms can develop these. If you have the habit of pursing the lips or pouting, or if you whistle a lot, this may cause the lines. If you have a habitually happy expression which lifts the corress of your mouth and your ners of your mouth and your facial contour in general, you will be less apt to develop them. Of course sometimes they appear anyway.

This condition creates a difficult make up to be since its ficult make-up job since lip-stick is likely to run into the fine lines. In the first place be sure to select a lipstick which is not too oily—one which has a bit more body. Stretch the skin of the lips be posed to do? STELLA fore applying lipstick. Then powder over the lips. This man who is decent, treats you fills the creases and sets the coloring.

Also many women do not make their lower lips full enough. If you add a little more fullness, it seems to lift the corners of the mouth

Most women use rouge which is too dark or too bright. The general rule is to choose a very light color.

CALGARY MAN IN LINE FOR TOP ENERGY POST

OTTAWA (CP) — Informants say the federal government's choice as chairman for the new national energy board is the head of the pace setting Alberta oil and gas conservation board, Ian N. McKinnon of Calgary.

He was scheduled to meet with Trade Minister Church-ill today, ostensibly to discuss Alberta government views on the federal government's proposed energy board.

But wel-informed sources said the $20,000-a-year chairmanship of the energy board will also be a main topic of discussion. His present salary is about $15,000 a year.

Invariably South would play low from dummy and some East players were smart enough to beat the hand one trick. The defence was to overtake partner's queen of clubs with the king, cash the ace of hearts and lead a diamond. At this point it would not matter what South did. He would have to lose to the king of diamonds and ace of spades and East would ruff two hearts.
At the other tables

East would decide to back in with three clubs and invariably would play the hand at that spot.

South would open the king of spades and East would play low from dummy. Some South players would play low from dummy a second spade wherego upon East would win the trick, play a heart to the ace, ruff their last spade and make the contract.

The defence to beat the hand was to shift to a trump. North would take his ace and lead another believeable as a 19th with your children about what drama.

TV programs we're going to fortunately, however, watch!"

The adaptation by Jacqueline Mabbin and Audrey Gellen managed to create just this exact atmosphere needed by Melville—or at feast as much as possible considering the difficulty of faithfully contained. considering the difficulty of faithfully capturing on 20 inches of screen the details of life aboard an 18th Century man-of-war of the Royal Navy, a sea action and the elements themselves;

FULL CREDIT for this success must be meted out to the adapters, director Robert Mulligan and the actors involved whose total skill managed to make "Billy Budd" something haunting and memorable, a gripping battleground for the forces of good and evil.

One actor above all others, however, was responsible for the malignancy, so important to the overall success of the whole. He was Alfred Ryder—who filled in for ailing Jason Robards. As the vicious master-at-arms Claggart he was the embodiement of and a corposed to Budda humbling bindering to a contract to Budda humbling bindering. evil as opposed to Budd's bumbling kindness, a man The choice concern's a woman's honor.

as Captain Vere, a man who seemed to be some kind of referee between the forces. Said he, in Melville's melancholy lines: "The world wants not justice, but order, to be left alone to hug its own iniquity."

As for the others I would say that Roddy Mc.

Bowall was excellent as Squeak and George Ebeling as Dansker. I'm still not too sure about Don Murray's Billy Budd. Although he has much to offer in the way of talent I had the feeling that he missed Budd's character. Where, I quite can't say. And I do wish they had forgotten about that white wig.

One carrier-load 1"x2"—No. 4 common cedar S48. This load was hearing Melville's lines which the adapters wisely contains approx. 10,000 loneal feet could be used for strapping staking plants, etc. Will sell complete lot for $20.00 plants, etc. Will sell complete lot for $20.00 plants.

Fire Hazard Closes Woods In Maritimes

By The Canadian Press Nova Scotia's dangerously dry forests were ordered closed to travel today as the Maritimes continued to get the worst of an Eastern Canada hot spell.

The step was taken because of the high fire hazard. Travel in the province's woods may be done only on special permits issued by forest rangers.

The hot, dry weather was forecast to continue for at least another day with temperatures in the 80s. Several record high temperatures were established in the Maritime's Tuesday, The 88-degrees record at Chatham, N.B., was the warmest in Canada. In Quebec, five forest fires were reported burning in the eastern part of the province. The Quebec forest protection service says the condition of forests generally was good.

Were You Right?

Quakerism is an atmosphere, a manner of approach-their own adherents.

They avoid an exact defini-tion embodied in a rigid re-

NOTHING RIGID

For example, while Quaker-ism is opposed to the taking of oaths—even such as are taken in legal matters—if a Quaker has a belief that such an oath should be taken, he is not castigated by his brethren for so doing.

Alternative to the oath in which the subject will "swear' is the Quaker's "I solemily affirm," used everywhere, and legally, as a substitute.

And while adherents are opposed to war, refusing on religious grounds to carry arms, Quakerism does not state that members must not carry arms. In fact, Quakers have been in battle, often. But the majority who wish to serve go into auxiliary non-combatant services such as following the troops as first aiders or stretcher bearers — frequently as hazardous a job as any.

SCOPE FOR ALL "The belief is wide enough for all to follow their own life," affirmed Mr. Evans.

While Quakers have a strong belief in the hereafter, they also believe there is little division between the religious and secular aspects of today's living, and do their best to establish the "Kingdom of Heaven on Earth."

This is where their worldwide help to the needy comes

As William Penn said: "True Godliness does not turn men out of the world, but enables them to live better in it, and, excites their endeavors to mend it."

This has been paramount in both local and international both local and international emergencies — the Quakers here have taken a strong hand in helping the needy, without being called upon to do so. Their work is so well thought of donations come from many sources, including Catholics of the Quaker of the Qua working there."

Sharing in work of the United Nations through an active Quaker UN program. Supporting self help programs for refugees in Germany and Hong Kong, plus educational work in Greece and Africa.

Continued its interest in the welfare of minorities ... On this latter point, Mr. Evans pointed out Quakers take a strong stand against any form of discrimination.

for either religious or ethni-

Quakers were conspicuous early in the matter of slavery. In 1676 the assembly at Bar-bados passed an act to prevent Quakers from bringing ne groes to their meetings!

SOMETIMES SILENT

Quaker meetings, even to day, are informal. There is no minister. They believe in the priesthood of all members.

At meetings, which are held in the "meeting house" at 1831 Fern erected in 1913, prayers are spontaneous as are hymns, and often the service is held in complete silence.
"Every meeting is an experiment, a spiritual adventure. Worship arises out of silence," explained Mr. Evans.

The movement started in England in 1647 when George Fox a weaver's son, began preaching. There is no evidence he started out to form a separate religious body. It appears that some of his more emotional followers, excited with the moving sense of newly awakened spirituality, shook. Thus the name 'Quakers" originated. The Quakers simply accepted the term of derision of older days, and today it is respected everywhere in the world. The Society Of Friends are actually, friends who are friends to all.

4 Men Drowned In Quebec Mishap

VAL D'OR, Que. (UPI) - A boating accident took the lives of four men on a fishing trip at Lake Quevillon Sunday. The victims were Dr. Phil-lippe Brousseau, about 40, coroner for Abitibi East; Arthur Robillard, 47, former chief of police at Malartic; Noel Blanchete, 50, a con-tractor, and Cristo Vincent, about 50.

Those rescued were Jacques Miquelon, minister without portfolio in the cabinet of Premier Maurice Duplessis, and Henry Marcotte.

CIGARET BUTTED ON BEAR'S NOSE TO SAVE CHILD

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)-A three-yearold boy was rescued from a 250-pound bear at the city zoo Tuesday by a teen-ager who jammed a glowing cigaret against the beast's nose

The animal quickly released its grip on the hand of Russell VanDam.

The boy had crawled under a guard rail and thrust his hand through a two-inch mesh screen into the bear's cage.

Thomas Cole, 19, heard the boy's mother, Mrs. Melvin J. VanDam, scream. He rushed to the cage and found her trying to pull her son's hand free. Cole reached through the screen and burned the

Negro Lynchers Known

WASHINGTON (AP) Government sources said today the Federal Bureau of Investigation solved the Mack Charles Parker lynching and named the participants in evidence turned over to Missisin sippi Governor J. P. Coleman.

According to this report, the list was accompanied by proof of the identities of the masked men who went into the Pearl River County jail at Poplarville, Miss., April 25 and dragged the screaming 23-Negro feet first to their waiting cars.

. When friends drop in unexpectedly, and you are running low on sarsaparilla, and the friends show no sign of going home, you might try this on them:

Did you ever hear the story of the rich old man who didn't believe in book larnin', and the rich old man's son who was always trying to improve his mind?

Well, it seems this old man became very rich indeed, through discovering coal or oil or uranium or something, and through having dug it out of the ground with his own

And it seems this old man hadn't never been to college, or high school, or any school at all, and wouldn't have no truck nor trade with nobody that went to school what-

But his very own and only son took to reading books and listening to lectures and visiting art galleries and good-ness knows what else goings-on in the field of culture. Well, one of the greatest prides the old man had—and he had many prides—was pride in his home.

So the old man up and had built for hisself the biggest

dang house you ever saw, a real baronial mansion it was, and it was indeed the pride and also the joy of his poor old uneducated heart. In fact, it was such a baronial mansion that people

Meantime, the old man's son kept on reading books and carrying on with culture in its most virulent forms, until the old man was like to despair. So one day the rich old man called in his son, and he said, son, don't you realize that when I am gone, all this will be yours, this great big mansion which is worth at least two zillion dollars?

Yes, father, said the son, putting a bookmark in the book he was reading. (He would NEVER dog-ear the page

Well, son, I got news for you, the old man said, you ain't going to get this great big baronial mansion worth at least two zillion dollars unless'n you give up readin' and traipsin' around to art galleries and all that there culture.

$20,000 Loss As Fire Rips Oak Bay Store

A fire apparently started in electrical wiring caused damage estimated at $20,-000 at Don Adams Interiors Ltd., 2259 Oak Bay, at 3.40 a.m. today.

The high damage appraisal was laid to the quantity of exclusive, imported merchandise contained in the building, which also houses a hairdressing salon operated by building ner Don H. Mark. Don Adams Interiors, spe-ializing in contemporary Danish furnishings, was recently referred to by the Copenhagen newspaper Berline Tidende as one of the two most beautiful shops in North America.

for general organization. It is a new post, created to ease the work of schools super-intendent John Gough and his assistant Alex Turnbull.

NO BLUEPRINT

"There is no definite blue-print of duties." Mr. Dee said, "but I expect to be kept busy. My duties will be similar to those of Harry O'Donnell, who covers the elementary schools."

Mr. Dee received BA, B.Ed, and MA degrees from the University of British Columbia after attending the old Boys' Central School, Victoria High School, Victoria College and Victoria Normal School.

After he received his B.Eddegree he taught in Victoria High School, but he says "I served my apprenticeship in a one-room leg cabin school at Mapes, way up near Prince George, before I went to uni-versity at all." Before he was appointed principal four years ago, succeeding Harry Smith, he was vice-principal for 15 years. During his 32 years of teach-

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)-A three-yearold boy was rescued from a 250-pound bear at the city zoo Tuesday by a teen-ager who jammed a glowing cigaret against the beast's nose.

The animal quickly released its grip on the hand of Russell VanDam.

The boy had crawled under a guard rail and thrust his hand through a two-inch mesh screen into the bear's cage. Thomas Cole, 19, heard the boy's mother, Mrs. Melvin J. VanDam, scream. He rushed to the cage and found her trying to pull her son's hand free. Cole reached through the screen and burned the
